FYI

The SHOPA Kids In Need Foundation offers a unique way to support teachers from low-income schools—21 resource centers around the country where you can get supplies free of charge. To see if there's a center in your area, visit http://shopa.org/shopa_foundation/teacher_programs.php.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has launched a "Just for Teachers" section on its Web site to help you select investments for employer-sponsored 403(b) retirement savings plans and other savings vehicles. This free savings resource is available at www.sec.gov/investor/teachers.shtml.

Here's a resource to tell parents about: Education Software Solutions (Eduss) is offering free math assessment software to parents and homeschoolers. The Eduss math assessment covers math skills and concepts for students in grades K-8. This tool shows where a child's learning of a particular math concept has stalled, giving both parents and teachers the knowledge needed to address the problem. Parents can order a free assessment by visiting www.eduss.com/freeassessment or by calling (800) 993-3877.

Excelsior Software created Gradebook2, a free electronic grade book, to help you manage student information. Customize Gradebook2 to accommodate any grading system or formula, create multiple reports for important communication, and track standards-based outcomes. Gradebook2 is available for both Windows and Macintosh computers at www.gradebook.com. Download your copy today!
